D. & E. Assessment of Internal Control System by the NCLEAC

The NCLEAC has completed its annual assessment of the Internal Control Systems of the Nassau County Local Economic Assistance Corporation (NCLEAC). In conducting the assessment the NCLEAC followed the suggested steps laid out in the NYS Authority Budget Office recommended guidance for the effectiveness of Internal Controls. The NCLEAC started with the NCLEAC Mission Statement in identifying the Primary Operating Responsibilities, Business Units, Operations, and Functions.

The next step in the assessment was to assess the risk exposure of each function and assign a corresponding risk level of high, medium, or low.

The next step in the formal assessment process was to identify the internal control systems in place.

A formal assessment of the internal control systems was conducted to identify any weaknesses and determine if the existing internal controls were adequate to mitigate risk and prevent abuse of the Corporation's assets. The results of the assessment determined that the existing internal controls were adequate, do mitigate risk, and safeguard against abuses of Corporation assets.

Internal Controls Assessment Statement

This Statement certifies that management of the Nassau County Local Economic Assistance Corporation (the "Corporation") has documented and assessed the internal control structure and procedures of the Corporation for the year from January 1, to December 31, 2016. This assessment has found the Corporation's internal controls to be adequate.
